From 2017, the Australian Institute of Healthcare Education (AIHE) will be offering several courses which will support and recognise the important role that Clinical Supervisors and Managers play in the mentoring, coaching and supervision of both students and staff within the workplace.

Leading professionals

Leading professionals within their area of healthcare will be able to apply for the courses and work their way through workplace and online activities or be recognised for already working in a supervisory role through Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL).

Flexible learning solutions or RPL

Supporting delivery face to face and online delivery for individuals who are aiming to further their busy career.

Some may be eligible for recognition of their learning already.

Who will it be for?

Our new Clinical Supervision short course will cover skills suitable for supervisors in a clinical setting in Health or Allied Health Care settings .

Continuous professional development

You may be able to apply for CPD points for some or all of this learning. Ask us how.

Certificate in Clinical Supervision-short course

This Certificate will recognise the skills and knowledge required to initiate, prepare for and participate in a structured process of clinical supervision.

This course applies to:

- workers who operate with significant autonomy in clinical professional service roles in A Clinical Setting either in the Healthcare or Allied Health Industry .
- workplace supervisors or other work colleagues who work under limited supervision and who have responsibility for mentoring one or more individuals in the workplace. This may include, but is not limited to, those who mentor an apprentice or trainee employed by, or undertaking a work placement within, an organisation.

It describes the skills and knowledge required to conduct individual and group instruction, demonstrate work skills and assess the success of training and one's own training performance, using existing learning resources in a safe and comfortable learning environment.

It emphasises the training as being driven by the work process and context, and applies to a person working under supervision as a work skill instructor in a wide range of settings. Learn more

Some people may be eligible for RPL

WHO CAN APPLY?

Anyone who works within a healthcare industry setting who is either currently working as a supervisor or will be completing supervisory, mentoring or coaching duties within their role such as:

1. Sonographers
2. Allied Health Professionals
3. Health Administrators
4. Other professional workers who may be eligible.

WORKSHOP SOLUTIONS

If it's skill based solutions you are after then we can support these too.

HIGHER QUALIFICATIONS—WATCH THIS SPACE

AIHE already have an outstanding reputation for delivering high quality programs to Sonographers and health care settings. We currently deliver the following qualifications

- 40638SA Graduate Diploma of Diagnostic Medical Ultrasound
- O&G and Emergency Ultrasound Short Courses

We are now currently also creating new courses to support individuals who lead and/ or manage within Clinical Health Environments and hope to be able to have these ready for you by Mid 2017 or 2018.

RECOGNITION OF PRIOR LEARNING

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) is a key component of our courses. If you believe you are already in a supervisory role within a health setting workplace, you may be eligible to have your skills and knowledge recognised in a formal manner.

WHAT DO YOU HAVE TO DO?

The RPL process is simple.

1. Apply for RPL through the formal channel by sending an email to info@aihe.edu.au
2. Complete the form sent to you. (Note, you may be asked to provide workplace documentation to prove your experience. If this is not sufficient, you may be asked to complete some questions or assessments as part of recognising your experience).
3. Send in certified copies of original qualifications.
4. Have a discussion with a qualified AIHE Assessor.
5. If you tick all the criteria, then your experience and qualifications will be recognised with a formal email and you will receive a certificate appropriate to the level.
