

The Law and Healthcare

Overview

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to identify and work within the legal and ethical frameworks that apply to an individual job role. It applies to community services and health workers who play a proactive role in identifying and meeting their legal and ethical responsibilities.

How long is this course?

The course should take you approximately 2+ hours to read through all sections, watch each of the video clips, as well as complete the quizzes. It will depend on your rate of learning and may be longer or shorter.

Outcomes

You will learn about the how laws are made in the Australian system of government.

You will also discover the distinction between legal and ethical frameworks and how to work within both as they apply to your own sector.

The knowledge you gain in this unit will also assist you to monitor, coordinate and promote their importance of legal and ethical frameworks when providing services in duty of care requirements. This includes an overview of client's rights and how to identify when you encounter ethical dilemmas in your work with clients.